

Victim Services' Statistical Report

Definitions of Services, Including Units of Service

Type of Services are defined below, along with the unit of service for each type of service. Each type of service has a different unit of service. All victim assistance programs DO NOT DELIVER the same type of services to the victims they serve. Types of Services are used to count NEW victims by services received in Table, while Table counts total units of service delivered to ALL VICTIMS served. Some types of services are delivered to victims only a single time, while other types of services may be delivered multiple times. Some types of services are delivered immediately after the victimization, while others may not be delivered to the victim until some time as passed after the victimization. Not all victim assistance agencies deliver all of these types of services to the victims they serve. Some agencies may deliver some services to a portion but not all of the victims they serve.

Questions & Answers about Quarterly Reporting

What changes have been made in this form compared to the old form?

The new form adds additional categories of victims by type of victimization, and includes some additional types of services provided. The biggest differences between the old and the new forms is the addition of pages for "existing victims" served. The old form only asked for New victims served each quarter. Finally, the new form asks about services delivered -- the old form only asked for victims served, first by type of victimization, and second by type of services received. The additional information allows us to report more completely and accurately the total number of crime victims served and the total number of services provided.

How do I count sessions with victims that include multiple purposes, such as follow-up to check on emotional well-being and case management to determine how well the referrals we provided worked out for the victim?

If substantial attention and time during the encounter focuses on a particular purpose, count that encounter for each service provided (i.e., count it multiple times). However, "substantial time or attention" means more than just mentioning it or referring to it briefly. The content of the session should be documented in case notes or files, and these case notes should include ALL purposes of the session.

How do I determine which service is which? They seem to overlap.

Please take note of some of the distinguishing features used to separate services. These features include: emergency versus non-emergency; in-person versus on the telephone or in writing; specialized advocate/therapist versus regular victim advocate; emotional support/counseling versus instrumental assistance/case management; and direct services to the victim from your agency versus advocacy on behalf of the victim with other agencies.

If I am not a prosecution-based victim assistance agency, do I have to fill out Worksheet IIIC? Do all prosecution-based victim assistance agencies have to fill out Worksheet IIIC?

Worksheet IIID is only for the prosecution-based victim witness agencies and is optional for them. Services and definitions of the services listed were provided by the Prosecuting Attorneys' Council.

What is the difference between "new" and "existing" victims? This seems like a lot of extra work.

"New" victims refer to victims never before served by your agency, or victims previously served who have returned for services because they have incurred a new victimization (not uncommon with victims of domestic violence). "Existing" victims refer to victims you began serving in a previous quarter to whom you are still continuing to provide services. Previous reporting requirements asked only for "NEW" victims each quarter and overlooked the portion of your case load/service population that was continuing to receive services.

Yes, it is more work, but it does provide a more accurate count of your case load and the total amount of services being provided to victims of crime.

Why are we counting services again on Section IIIB when we count services in Section IIA as well?

Section IIIA is a count of victims not services. It counts the number of victims receiving a service by the type of service
